Essays And Studies Vol 38 1985:

The Uncommercial Traveller and Other Papers, 1859-70 Charles Dickens, 2000 Makes recommendations for removing the barriers women face in contributing to and benefiting from sustainable economic development International experience has proved that support for a stronger role for women in society contributes to economic growth through improved child survival rates better family health and reduced fertility rates Nevertheless women still face many barriers in contributing to and benefiting from development These include low investment in female education and health and restricted access to services and assets This study highlights five areas that could help change this inequitable situation education health wage labor agriculture and natural resource management and financial services A gender and development strategy is suggested that would take into account the relative roles and responsibilities of women and men implying that the actions and attitudes of men must change The ideas presented in this paper are an example of the World Bank's commitment to mainstreaming gender concerns into its operations Although significant steps have already been taken in this direction there remains a long road ahead Also available French ISBN 0 8213 3023 3 Stock No 13023 Spanish ISBN 0 8213 3024 1 Stock No 13024

A Millennium of Family Change Wally Seccombe, 1992 How do changes in family form relate to changes in society as a whole In a work which combines theoretical rigour with historical scope Wally Seccombe provides a powerful study of the changing structure of families from the Middle Ages to the beginning of the Industrial Revolution Responding to feminist critiques of sex blind historical materialism Seccombe argues that family forms must be seen to be at the heart of modes of production He takes issue with the mainstream consensus in family history which argues that capitalism did not fundamentally alter the structure of the nuclear family and makes a controversial intervention in the long standing debate over European marriage patterns and their relation to industrialization Drawing on an astonishing range of studies in family history historical demography and economic history A Millennium of Family Change provides an integrated overview of the long transition from feudalism to capitalism illuminating the far reaching changes in familial relations from peasant subsistence to the making of the modern working class
