Rashke, 1995 A story reconstructed from the diaries, notes and memories of the six hundred Jews who revolted, three hundred of whom escaped the death camp Sobibor. Death Camp Uprising Nel Yomtov, 2017-01-01 Experience the events that followed the Sobibor death camp prisoner's decision to escape. Readers will discover a powerful story of human courage and mankind's fierce will to live. New York Magazine, 1987-04-13 New York Magazine was born in 1968 after a run as an insert of the New York Herald Tribune and quickly made a place for itself as the trusted resource for readers across the country. With award-winning writing and photography covering everything from politics and food to theater and fashion, the magazine's consistent mission has been to reflect back to its audience the energy and excitement of the city itself while celebrating New York as both a place and an idea. Sobibor Jules Schelvis, 2014-05-20 Auschwitz Treblinka The very names of these Nazi camps evoke unspeakable cruelty. Sobibor is less well known and this book discloses the horrors perpetrated there. Established in German-occupied Poland, the camp at Sobibor began its dreadful killing operation in May 1942. By October 1943, approximately 167,000 people had been murdered there. Sobibor is not well documented and were it not for an extraordinary revolt on 14 October 1943, we would know little about it. On that day, prisoners staged a remarkable uprising in which 300 men and women escaped. The author identifies only forty-seven who survived the war. Sent in June 1943 to Sobibor where his wife and family were murdered, Jules Schelvis has written the first book-length, fully documented account of the camp. He details the creation of the killing centre, its personnel, the use of railways, selections, forced labour, gas chambers, escape attempts, and the historic uprising. In documenting this part of Holocaust history, this compelling and well-researched account advances our knowledge and understanding of the Nazi attempt to annihilate the European Jews. Published in association with the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum. A Promise at Sobibór Philip "Fiszel" Bialowitz, Joseph Bialowitz, 2010-11-30 A Promise at Sobibor is the story of Fiszel Bialowitz, a teenaged Polish Jew who escaped the Nazi gas chambers. Between April 1942 and October 1943, about 250,000 Jews from European countries and the Soviet Union were sent to the Nazi death camp at Sobibor in occupied Poland. Sobibor was not a transit camp or work camp; its sole purpose was efficient mass murder. On October 14, 1943, approximately half of the 650 or so prisoners still alive at Sobibor undertook a daring and precisely planned revolt, killing SS officers and fleeing through minefields and machine gun fire into the surrounding forests, farms, and towns. Only about forty-two of them, including Fiszel, are known to have survived to the end of the war. Philip Fiszel Bialowitz, now an American citizen, tells his eyewitness story here in the real-time perspective of his own boyhood, from his childhood before the war and his internment in the brutal Izbica ghetto to his harrowing six months at Sobibor, including his involvement in the revolt and desperate mass escape and his rescue by courageous Polish farmers He also recounts the challenges of life following the war as a teenaged displaced person and his eventual efforts as a witness to the truth of the Holocaust In 1943 the heroic leaders of the revolt at Sobibor Sasha Perchersky and Leon Feldhendler implored fellow prisoners to promise that anyone who survived would tell the story of Sobibor not just of the horrific atrocities committed there but of the courage and humanity of those who fought back Bialowitz has kept that promise

Modern Russian Cinema as a Battleground in Russia's Information War Alexander Rojavin, Helen Haft, 2024-07-31 This book explores how modern Russian cinema is part of the international information war that has unfolded across a variety of battlefields including social media online news and television It outlines how Russian cinema has been instrumentalized both by the Kremlin's allies and its detractors to convey salient political and cultural messages often in subtle ways thereby becoming a tool for both critiquing and serving domestic and foreign policy objectives shaping national identity and determining cultural memory It explains how regulations legislation and funding mechanisms have rendered contemporary cinema both an essential weapon for the Kremlin and a means for more independent figures to publicly frame official government policy In addition the book employs formal cinematic analysis to highlight the dominant themes and narratives in modern Russian films of a variety of genres situating them in Russia's broader rhetorical ecosystem and explaining how they serve the objectives of the Kremlin or its opponents

Escape from Sobibor Arthur Williams, In the remote forests of eastern Poland hidden behind a facade of normalcy and deception stood one of Nazi Germany's most sinister creations Sobibor extermination camp Constructed in early 1942 as part of Operation Reinhard the systematic plan to murder the Jews of occupied Poland Sobibor was designed with a single horrific purpose the industrial scale killing of human beings Unlike concentration camps that served multiple functions including forced labor Sobibor existed solely to transform living people into corpses as efficiently as possible The camp's very architecture embodied the Nazi vision of mechanized murder with railway lines leading directly to gas chambers disguised as shower facilities and carefully planned deception protocols that kept victims calm until the final moments of their lives The location of Sobibor was chosen with characteristic Nazi attention to detail and cruel efficiency Situated near the village of Sobibor in the Lublin district of occupied Poland the camp was positioned along a railway line that connected it to major population centers while remaining sufficiently isolated to maintain secrecy about its true purpose The surrounding forest provided natural concealment from aerial observation while offering convenient disposal sites for the enormous quantities of human remains that the camp's operations would generate The Nazi planners understood that the success of their genocidal enterprise depended not only on killing efficiency but also on maintaining the deception that convinced victims to cooperate with their own destruction
