Scientific Inquiry Cycle: Review

Science helps communities solve problems by applying knowledge and creating things that "solve" with a local focus such as water quality or waste management using science to make or improve solutions can have a positive impact. Understanding the problem fully, including its causes and effects, is the first step in finding an effective solution.

Designing solutions requires considering various conditions, such as budget, time, and safety concerns. Community members have a part of a solution might face challenges, however, and it is important to weigh these trade-offs carefully. For example, creating resources for a water filter may affect its cost and ease of use, which influenced the effectiveness of the solution.

After identifying a solution, documenting how it works, what conditions affected it, and any compromises that have already been or should involve on the way. Communication, using simple words, and reflecting on the results of the solution are important steps. This process can help identify future needs, locally encourages responsible decision-making, and helps communities thrive.

6A. Mark the best answer for each question.

1. What is the first important step when working on a local problem?
- Thinking of a solution immediately
 - Using the most expensive materials
 - Ignoring safety concerns
 - Understanding the problem fully
2. What does documenting conditions in a solution help with?
- Ignoring the conditions of the solution
 - Establishing a baseline for safety and quality
 - Showing how to avoid safety concerns
 - Demonstrating that the solution has no risks
3. Which is an example of a trade-off?
- Finding a solution with no risks
 - Using simple words to explain the solution
 - The time it takes to finish the project
 - Using simple materials
4. Why is communication important in a solution?
- To avoid not being understood
 - To make ideas clearer
 - To finish the project as quickly as possible
 - To avoid discussing the solution

6B. Mark if the statement is True (T) or False (F).

1. A solution made after one failed attempt is always better than one that is made after several failed attempts.

Answer for each question.

1. Document a problem fully before designing a solution?

2. Why must this be considered in designing a solution?

3. What might happen when creating a water filter?

4. How might science solutions be implemented?

5. Why are trade-offs essential in scientific understanding?
