El Tesoro:

Mexican Folk Narrative from the Los Angeles Area Elaine K. Miller, 2014-08-27 Urban Los Angeles is the setting in which Elaine Miller has collected her narratives from Mexican Americans. The Mexican folk tradition varied and richly expressive of the inner life not only of a people but also of the individual as each lives it and personalizes it. It is abundantly present in the United States. Since it is in the urban centers that most Mexican Americans have lived, this collection represents an important contribution to the study of that tradition and to the study of the changes urban life effects on traditional folklore. The collection includes sixty-two legendary narratives and twenty traditional tales. The legendary narratives deal with the virgins and saints as well as with such familiar characters as the vanishing hitchhiker, the headless horseman, and the llorona. Familiar characters appear in the traditional tales: Juan del Oso, Blancaflor, Pedro de Ordimalas, and others. Elaine Miller concludes that the traditional tales are dying out in the city because tale telling itself is not suited to the fast pace of modern urban life and the situations and characters in the tales are not perceived by the people to be meaningfully related to the everyday challenges and concerns of that life. The legendary tales survive longer in an urban setting because, although containing fantastic elements, they are related to the beliefs and hopes of the narrator. Even in the city, one may be led to buried treasure on some dark night by a mysterious woman. The penchant of the informants for the fantastic in many of their tales often reflects their hopes and fears, such as their dreams of suddenly acquiring wealth or their fears of being haunted by the dead. Miller closely observes the teller's relation to the stories: the duendes, the nimas, Death, God, the devil, and she notes the tension on the part of the informant in his relation to their religion. The material is documented according to several standard tale and motif indices and is placed within the context of the larger body of Hispanic folk tradition by the citation of parallel versions throughout the Hispanic world. The tales transcribed from taped interviews are presented in colloquial Spanish accompanied by summaries in English. Colombia United States. Office of Geography, 1965 Gazetteer of Guatemala, 1985 Gazetteer of Colombia, 1988 The Mexican Filmography, 1916 through 2001 David E. Wilt, 2024-10-17 Mexican cinema has largely been overlooked by international film scholars because of a lack of English language information and the fact that Spanish language information was difficult to find and often out of date. This comprehensive filmography helps fill the need. Arranged by year of release and then by title, the filmography contains entries that include basic information: film and translated title, production company, genre, director, cast, a plot summary, and additional information about the film. Inclusion criteria: a film must be a Mexican production or co-production, feature length, one hour or more, silent films excepted, fictional documentaries and compilation films are not included unless the topic relates to Mexican cinema. Some docudramas and films with recreated or staged scenes are included and theatrically released or intended for theatrical release. Colonial Heritage, Power, and Contestation Camila Andrea Malig Jedlicki, Naomi Oosterman, Rodrigo Christofolletti, 2024-01-01 Recent debates about the return of colonially looted heritage have furthered

the discussions on decolonisation around the world and have reignited questions surrounding what is and who owns cultural heritage These discourses in the meaning production and management of heritage with a growing presence of themes that address Latinities have gained greater visibility in Latin America and the Caribbean as challenges surrounding cultural heritage arise more prominently worldwide The attention on this region aims to contextualise the various theoretical empirical and critical perspectives in relation to the negotiation of decolonisation Hence this book focuses on the analysis of diverse modes of confronting the power underlying colonial heritage that can contribute to pushing boundaries and persuading changes in pre established definitions of political thought and local identities To this end the chapters in this book focus on a wide scope of topics ranging from the repatriation and restitution of cultural heritage and diasporic movements to decolonial practices around monuments museums and education In so doing this volume challenges stereotypes that made Latin America and the Caribbean a space of mere reproducibility of external ideas and instead provides a space to show current decolonial perspectives and practices developed in the region that will enrich the international debate on the contestation of colonial legacies and decolonisation of cultural heritage
