

Food chains

No living thing can survive without food. A food chain shows how a specific set of plants and animals are linked together by who eats what. Each arrow in a food chain means "is eaten by". The chain ends when it reaches an animal that has no natural predators. If one link is removed, the chain will break.

Complete the food chains

Do you know which of the animals below fits into the two incomplete food chains?

- 1 Coyote
This wild member of the dog family lives in America, feeding on animals, insects, and fruit.
- 2 Killer whale
The biggest member of the dolphin family swims in the oceans, hunting marine life and seabirds.
- 3 Octopus
This unusual animal uses its six arms and two legs to search the sea for fish and crabs.
- 4 Gazelle
At home in Africa and Asia, this antelope leaps around the plains, feeding on grass and shrubs.

Producer
Animals can't produce their own food. They get their energy from the food they eat. Producers are plants, including things like wheat and corn.

Primary consumer
Animals that eat plants are called primary consumers. They are the first, or primary, link in a food chain. Some eat other food chains, too.

Secondary consumer
Animals that eat herbivores are secondary consumers. They can be omnivores, which eat other animals, or carnivores, which eat animals and plants. A robin is a primary consumer because it eats worms.

Tertiary consumer
Tertiary consumers are mainly carnivores. They feed on secondary consumers. The owl is the end of the food chain, as it is not eaten by any other animal, but other food chains can be shorter or longer.

Apex predator
An animal at the very top of a food chain is called an apex predator. These animals are not hunted by anything. An example is the African lion, which kills its prey but has no natural predators to worry about.
