Scientific Inquiry Cycle: Review

Science helps communities solve problems by applying knowledge and creating things that "solve" with a local focus such as water quality or waste management using science to make or improve solutions can have a positive impact. Understanding the problem fully, including its causes and effects, is the first step in finding an effective solution.

Designing solutions begins by considering various conditions, such as budget, time, and safety concerns. Community members have a part of a solution might face challenges, however, and it is important to weigh these trade-offs carefully. For example, creating materials for a water filter may affect its cost and ease of use, which influenced the effectiveness of the solution.

After identifying a solution, documenting how it works, what conditions affected it, and any compromises that have already been and should involve on the way. Communication, using simple words, and reflecting on the results of the solution are important steps. This process can help sharing ideas locally encourages responsible decision-making and helps communities thrive.

6A. Mark the best answer for each question.

1. What is the first important step when working on how to solve a local problem?
- Thinking a solution immediately
 - Using the most expensive materials
 - Ignoring safety concerns
 - Understanding the problem fully
2. What does documenting contribute to a solution help with?
- Using the products of the solution
 - Explaining the solution and safety
 - Showing how to solve
 - Demonstrating that the solution has no risks
3. Which is an example of a trade-off?
- Finding a solution with no risks
 - Using simple words to explain
 - The time and resources to complete
 - Using simple materials
4. Why is compromise important?
- To avoid not being in agreement
 - To make ideas stronger
 - To finish the problem by combining
 - To avoid choosing a trade-off

6B. Mark if the statement is True (T) or False (F).

1. A solution made after one failed attempt is always better than the first one.

Answer for each question.

1. How does discovering a solution help in the scientific process?

2. Why must this be considered in designing a solution?

3. What might happen when creating a water filter?

4. How might science solutions be implemented?
