Walt Whitman and the Persian Poets J. R. LeMaster, Sabahat Jahan, 2009 Where did Walt Whitman get his religious ideas This book follows in detail the similarities of the religious beliefs of the American writer humanist and two major classical Persian poets Hafez and Rumi Other books have tried to explain Whitman's religion but none so far has done justice to the topic Some critics have labelled Whitman a pantheist and let it go at that Others have dismissed the topic of religion in Whitman's poems as posturing to gain a readership This work contends that Whitman took religion very seriously His poems are full of religious references He knew the Bible well He also had read Emerson on the poets of the East as well as some of the same poets in translation This book postulates that the counterparts of Whitman's ideas about religion are best found in the Orient and that his ideas on religion have much in common with those of the Sufis The book focuses on the works of the three poets Lines from Whitman are quoted and compared with lines from Rumi and Hafez to illustrate that the three poets conveyed their message through very human actions and emotions Their message which is mystical is conveyed through a secular language and their symbolism is unconventional They attract the reader through their humanness and in doing so attempt to lead the reader to recognition of the divine existing both inside and outside of themselves Like Whitman Rumi and Hafez realise that God is both transcendent and immanent and as a result encourage their readers to seek the Divine everywhere especially within themselves Man's true home they contend is his Divine origin Man is infinitely bound up with God is never separate from God Whitman's long poem titled Song of Myself has created much controversy over the years and Whitman has often been labelled an extreme egotist Walt Whitman and the Persian Poets illustrates that all three poets see their egotism as a result of their complete faith in God's omnipresence and their ability to recognise Him in every aspect of creation As did Emerson all three hold a belief in the simultaneous transcendence and immanence of God In short they see themselves as God intoxicated as reflections of God in the phenomenal world Therefore as do the Sufi poets Whitman sees man and God as one
