It's healthy, good and there are great choices for you.

It's smart to choose healthy choices and there are great choices for you.

It's smart to choose healthy choices and there are great choices for you.

1. Where to find help and support: Community resources

It's smart to know that help and support are readily available within your community. Various structures exist to provide guidance and assistance as you navigate the complexities of sexual health.

Abstinence-Building Strategies

- Peer Education Programs: Engage a peer or someone that promotes healthy decision-making and provides a supportive environment.
- Parental Support: Maintain open communication with your parents or guardians, seeking their guidance and support when needed.

Community Resources Offering Guidance and Assistance

- Local Community: Your school likely has resources like sex-positive support, education, and resources related to sexual health.
- Local Health Clinics: Visit health clinics for confidential and professional advice on sexual health matters.
- Community Centers: Many communities have centers that offer educational programs, workshops, and counseling services.

Recognizing healthy choices in sexual behaviour involves a combination of personal strategies and seeking support from the community. Whether you choose abstinence or embark on a journey of informed choice, remember that your well-being is a priority. Stay informed, surround yourself with positive influences, and don't hesitate to reach out for help and support. Your community has a lot to guide you on your path to responsible decision-making and a healthy future.

Healthy Choice Strategies for Grade 9s

It's important to equip yourself with strategies that promote responsible and healthy sexual behaviour. Making informed decisions regarding your well-being is crucial, and there are various approaches to consider. Let's look at two key strategies—abstinence and behaviour change—along with protective factors and avenues for seeking help and support.

1. Abstinence: Choosing to Wait

Abstinence, the decision to refrain from engaging in sexual activities, is a powerful strategy that allows you to prioritise your physical, emotional, and social well-being. By choosing abstinence, you are taking control of your own timeline and ensuring that any future sexual engagement aligns with your values and personal readiness.

Protective Factors for Abstinence

- Self-Reflection: Take time to understand your values, boundaries, and personal goals.
- Peer Support: Surround yourself with friends who respect your decision to abstain and share similar values.
- Communication: Openly communicate with potential partners about your choice and expectations.
