Business Studies September Memorandum 2014:

Emerging Dynamics of Sustainability in Multinational Enterprises John R. McIntyre, Silvester Ivanaj, Vera Ivanaj, Rabi N. Kar, 2016-02-26 Economic development that meets the needs of the global population without jeopardizing the capacity of future generations is a worldwide challenge for multinational enterprises (MNEs). They are expected to balance their role as global economic actors and environmental stewards in the environment in which they operate. Contributors from India, Europe, and the United States offer new perspectives contrasting US, European, and emerging economies' approaches to sustainability and how they can generate roadmaps which yield innovative solutions for one of the most contentious issues of our era. Their review suggests that the differential performance across developed and emerging economies has exposed potential weaknesses. Emerging Dynamics of Sustainability in Multinational Enterprises promotes greater emphasis on experimenting with unique local and sustainable approaches to solving problems faced by firms in or from emerging economies. This is a critical resource for researchers, practitioners, and policy makers concerned with sustainable development issues and a fresh reference for graduate-level students and academics focusing on corporate governance, sustainable development, and ethics, as well as multinational enterprise management.

Retirement in Japan and South Korea Masa Higo, Thomas R. Klassen, 2015-04-10 This book analyses reforms to retirement policies in Japan and South Korea, especially in the context of rapid population ageing. A defining feature of the labour markets and workplaces in these two nations and the lives of workers and families is involuntary retirement at relatively young ages. The book explains past developments and recent reforms of retirement policies both in the two countries as well as in a cross-national comparative manner. At the core of the book is an examination of the social, economic, and political conflicts around retirement, such as between younger and older workers, between employers and governments, and between employers and workers. The policy recommendations offered apply not only to Japan and South Korea but also to other nations such as China. The volume is of value particularly for those interested in labour markets and workplaces, population ageing, and contemporary East Asia. In addition to those studying retirement and pensions, policymakers, business leaders, worker organizations, researchers, and students will benefit from the insights about the past, present, and future of retirement.

Business Battles in the US Energy Sector Christian Downie, 2019-01-17 This book is ground-breaking in its study of business actors in climate and energy politics. While various studies have demonstrated the influence of business actors across multiple policy domains, this is the first to examine the behaviour of business actors in energy-centric industries in the US that will be vital for achieving a clean energy transition, namely the oil, gas, coal, utility, and renewable industries. Drawing on almost 80 interviews with senior energy executives, lobbyists, and policymakers, it asks two central questions: i) how and why are business actors shaping energy policy contests in the US? and ii) what are the implications for policymakers? In answering these questions, this book provides new insights about the preferences and strategies of business in the energy sector and significantly identifies strategies for
