Numerical Data Fitting in Dynamical Systems Klaus Schittkowski,2013-06-05 Real life phenomena in engineering natural or medical sciences are often described by a mathematical model with the goal to analyze numerically the behaviour of the system Advantages of mathematical models are their cheap availability the possibility of studying extreme situations that cannot be handled by experiments or of simulating real systems during the design phase before constructing a first prototype Moreover they serve to verify decisions to avoid expensive and time consuming experimental tests to analyze understand and explain the behaviour of systems or to optimize design and production As soon as a mathematical model contains differential dependencies from an additional parameter typically the time we call it a dynamical model There are two key questions always arising in a practical environment 1 Is the mathematical model correct 2 How can I quantify model parameters that cannot be measured directly In principle both questions are easily answered as soon as some experimental data are available The idea is to compare measured data with predicted model function values and to minimize the differences over the whole parameter space We have to reject a model if we are unable to find a reasonably accurate fit To summarize parameter estimation or data fitting respectively is extremely important in all practical situations where a mathematical model and corresponding experimental data are available to describe the behaviour of a dynamical system

Fitting In, Standing Out Robert Crosnoe,2011-03-07 In American high schools teenagers must navigate complex youth cultures that often prize being real while punishing difference Adults may view such social turbulence as a timeless ultimately harmless rite of passage but changes in American society are intensifying this rite and allowing its effects to cascade into adulthood Integrating national statistics with interviews and observations from a single school this book explores this phenomenon It makes the case that recent macro level trends such as economic restructuring and technological change mean that the social dynamics of high school can disrupt educational trajectories after high school it looks at teenagers who do not fit in socially at school including many who are obese or gay to illustrate this phenomenon and it crafts recommendations for parents teachers and policy makers about how to protect teenagers in trouble The result is a story of adolescence that hits home with anyone who remembers high school An Autoethnography of Fitting In Phiona Stanley,2021-11-25 An

Autoethnography of Fitting In On Spinsterhood Fatness and Backpacker Tourism is a feminist narrative about the social rules of obedience and acquiescence to the norm embodiment heteronormativity partnering and about fitting in or not with those narratives Phiona Stanley explores a period through her twenties and thirties living and travelling alone foreign to herself and the countries of her travel in all regards white cisgender sometimes thin sometimes fat sometimes partnered This fascinating volume uses these lived experiences depicted through first person narrative storytelling as a prism through which to understand the subtle social rules of gendered normative expectations It draws on contemporary journals letters and photos and features process oriented sections that focus on the methodological possibilities these offer and on questions of verisimilitude and subjectivity Set in the context of transnational work in Qatar China and elsewhere and road status as negotiated and performed among long term backpacker tourists this book serves as an exemplar of how autoethnography can illuminate socio cultural normativities and their effects which are rarely explicit but which nevertheless have great potential to harm while problematizing and rethinking the meanings and semantic boundaries of weight queerness and hetero normativity Framed through reflexive autoethnography with a strong focus on ethics and feminist theories this book will appeal to students and researchers in autoethnography qualitative methods and gender and women s studies
