

There are three major parts of a fiber optic cable

The Coating

It's a protective layer that protects the cable against mechanical stresses and environmental factors.

The Core

Central region where light pulses travel. It is made from material with a high refractive index.

Cladding

Acting as an optical boundary, cladding contains the light within the core through total internal reflection.

Fundamentals of Fibre Optics in Telecommunication and Sensor Systems Bishnu P. Pal, 1992 Commences with the basics of fiber and integrated optics semiconductor sources and detectors fiber to fiber interconnection devices followed by their applications in telecommunication systems Introduces such emerging concepts as nonlinear guided wave optics solitons in fiber optics and electromagnetics of exotic fibers Lastly it describes several fiber optic devices and sensors which have become or will soon become commercial products for mass scale use in industry Fiber Optics Yellow Pages, LC Science Tracer Bulletin, 1972

Lightwave Conductors Günther Mahlke, Peter Gössing, 1987 Provides clear and comprehensive coverage of an increasingly important area of communications engineering Examines all facets of design and manufacture of optical cables and optical communications systems with an emphasis on the practical applications of lightwave conductors Topics include the physical operations and materials used to make optical waveguides and the latest applications of optical communications systems such as IJDN The text is supported by numerous illustrations many in full
