Rock Piles and Field Clearing Practices on Historic Farms and Pastures in Northeastern United States James E. Gage, Mary E. Gage, 2024-11-01 It is hard to imagine that the most controversial subject in 21st century northeastern archaeology concerns rock piles found on historic farm lands Yet rock piles are at the heart of a contentious debate about their cultural affiliation purpose and age Are they agricultural field clearing piles or Indigenous ceremonial features The short answer is some are the byproduct agricultural activities while others were intentionally built as an expression of Indigenous spiritual beliefs How do we distinguish between the two In order to answer that question it is necessary to have a solid historical and scientific understanding of field clearing practices in northeastern United States Using farm manuals and 19th century agricultural journals this book delves into the surprisingly complex topic of stone removal and disposal practices on farms in northeastern United States and beyond It establishes some basic criteria for identifying clearing piles Groups of Indigenous stone features including rock piles cairns have survived on unfarmed lands and old pastures They have largely been misidentified as field clearing piles and attributed to efforts to improve soil quality However new research shows that permanent pastures were rarely if ever cleared of stones 19th century farmers had a solid understanding of why their pastures were being degraded and the solutions they needed to fix them None of those solutions involved stone removal This book draws together in a single volume over a decade of intensive research into an obscure but critically important topic in historic archaeology Agricultural field clearing features are not considered archaeological significant Ceremonial landscapes traditional cultural properties are considered culturally sensitive sites Distinguishing between the two is an important task

Ancient Building Technology, Volume 3: Construction (2 Vols) G.R.H. Wright,2009-11-23 Building construction is the subject of this third part of the Ancient Building Technology set dealing with the history of building and building materials Beginning with the formulation of a project it goes on to discuss preliminary site surveying and setting out followed by building site development and its attendant installations and then examines the disposition of the various building materials in building construction from pre history to the end of antiquity Stone Decay B.J. Smith,A.

Turkington,2016-01-08 This volume offers valuable insights into the nature of decay processes and the factors that control them It presents several studies on the impact of pollution on stonework in urban environments Important methodological contributions cover the mapping of facades to explain rates of decay associated with conservation actions the laboratory simulation of corrosion in polluted atmospheres the quantification of colour change through a study of the artificial ageing of building stone The effectiveness of stone treatments within the laboratory is also considered Sermons in Stone Susan

Allport,1994-08 In 1871 there were 252 539 miles of stone walls in New England and New York enough to circle the earth ten times Ancient Building Technology, Vol. 2: Materials G.R.H. Wright,2023-03-20 This r sum study deals with building material which together with construction and structures forms one of the three aspects of building or equally one of the three factors which constitute the nature of a building Unlike existing manuals on ancient building this offers an analytic presentation and the subject matter extends across all ages and regions The treatment of materials is set out according to a paradigm of nature manufacture and use so as to facilitate direct comparison between different modes of the one material as also between different materials and between different building traditions This second part is published in two volumes the first containing texts the second more than 300 illustrations The print edition is available as a set of two volumes

9789004140073 The Early Bronze Age in Western Anatolia Laura K. Harrison,A. Nejat Bilgen,Asuman Kapuci,2021-04-01 Bringing together expert voices and key case studies from well known and newly excavated sites this book calls attention to the importance of western Anatolia as a legitimate local context in its own right The study of Early Bronze Age cultures in Europe and the Mediterranean has been shaped by a focus on the Levant Europe and Mesopotamia Geographically western Anatolia lies in between these regions yet it is often overlooked because it doesn t fit neatly into existing explanatory models of Bronze Age cultural development and decline Instead the tendency has been to describe western Anatolia as a bridge between east and west a place where ideas are transmitted and cultural encounters among different groups occur This narrative has foregrounded discussions of outside innovations in the prehistory of the region while diminishing the role of local endogenous developments and individual agency The contributors to this book offer a counternarrative ascribing a local impetus for change rather than a metanarrative of cultural diffusion In doing so they offer fresh observations about the chronology and delineation of regional cultural groups in western Anatolia the architecture settlement and sociopolitical organization of the Early Bronze Age and the local characteristics of material culture assemblages Offering multiple authoritative studies on the archaeology of western Anatolia this book is an essential resource for area research in western Anatolia a key reference for comparative studies and essential reading for college courses in the archaeology and anthropology of sociopolitical complexity European and Mediterranean prehistory and ancient Anatolia *Report on the Building and Ornamental Stones of Canada: Province of Quebec, by W.A.
