Ecstatic Writing:

Ecstatic Writing Maurice Horn, 2003-09 This book is a collection of poetry essays short stories and ecstatic writing which defies description The beauty of the place and my memories of those times come from a very special place in my heart It is drawn from the writing I have done over the course of my life from age fourteen at an Eastern prep school until a thought popped into my head this morning as I was drinking a cup of green tea For instance here is the story of how I was born I was baked inside a TV set for twenty five minutes The recipe called for fifty

The Transmutation of Love and Avant-Garde Poetics Jeanne Heuving, 2016-05-19 The Transmutation of Love and Avant Garde Poetics is a probing examination of how the writing of sexual love undergoes a radical revision by avant garde poets in the twentieth and twenty first centuries Today the exploration of love by poets long a fixture of Western poetic tradition is thought to be in decline with love itself understood to be a mere ideological overlay for the more real entities of physical sex and desire In The Transmutation of Love and Avant Garde Poetics Jeanne Heuving claims that a key achievement of poetry by Ezra Pound H D Robert Duncan Kathleen Fraser Nathaniel Mackey and others lies significantly in their engagement with the synergistic relations between being in love and writing love These poets she argues have traded the clichéd lover of yore for impersonal or posthuman poetic speakers that sustain the gloire and mystery of love poetry of prior centuries As Robert Duncan writes There is a love in which we are outcast and vagabond from what we are that we call falling in love Heuving claims that this writing of love is defining for avant garde poetics identifying how such important discoveries as Pound s and H D s Imagism Pound s Cantos and Duncan s open field poetics are derived through their changed writing of love She draws attention to how the prevailing concept of language as material is inadequate to the ways these poets also engage language as a medium as a conduit enabling them to address love afresh in a time defined through preoccupations with sexuality They engage love as immanent and change it through a writing that acts on itself The Transmutation of Love and Avant Garde Poetics ascribes the waning of love poetry to its problematic form a genre in which empowered poetic speakers constitute their speech through the objectification of comparatively disempowered subjects or beloveds Refusing this pervasive practice the poets she highlights reject the delimiting one sided tradition of masculine lovers and passive feminine beloveds instead they create a more nuanced dynamic poetics of ecstatic exploration what Heuving calls projective love and libidinized field poetics a formally innovative poetry in which one perception leads directly to the next and all aspects of a poem are generative of meaning

Interpreting the Prophets James Luther Mays, Paul J. Achtemeier, 1987-01-01 Combining a remarkable degree of scholarship, theological depth, and readability, these essays from the journal Interpretation will be an up-to-date and valuable resource for teaching and preaching the prophets. Contributors include Walter Brueggemann, Brevard S. Childs, R. E. Clements, John J. Collins, James L. Crenshaw, Michael Fishbane, John G. Gammie, Moshe Greenberg, William L. Holladay, Klaus Koch, Werner E. Lemke, James Limberg, Carol A. Newsom, Thomas M. Raitt, J. J. M. Roberts, James A. Sanders, David C. Steinmetz, W. Sibley Towner, Gene M. Tucker, Robert R. Robert Smithson, Land Art, and Speculative Realities Rory O'Dea, 2023-10-23 This book explores the ways Robert Smithson's art revealed and defamiliarized the constructs of rational reality in order to allow radically speculative alternatives to emerge. In this way, his art is conceived as a true fiction that eradicates a false reality. By tracing the web of correspondences between Smithson and science-fictional, speculative, and mystical modes of thought, Rory O'Dea explores the aesthetic encounters engendered by his art as a means to warp the contours of reality and loosen the boundaries of being human. Given the current and impending catastrophes of the Anthropocene, which represents the ever-expanding planetary shadow cast by humanism, the possibility of being other than human posited by Smithson's art is a matter of urgent concern. The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history, contemporary art, American studies, and environmental humanities

Lambent Traces Stanley Corngold, 2009-01-10 On the night of September 22, 1912, Franz Kafka wrote his story The Judgment, which came out of him like a regular birth. This act of creation struck him as an unmistakable sign of his literary destiny. Thereafter, the search of many of his characters for the Law for a home for artistic fulfillment can be understood as a figure for Kafka's own search to reproduce the ecstasy of a single night. In Lambent Traces, Franz Kafka, the preeminent American critic and translator of Franz Kafka, traces the implications of Kafka's literary breakthrough. Kafka's first concern was not his responsibility to his culture but to his fate as literature, which he pursued by exploring the limits of the human. At the same time, he kept his transcendental longings sober by noting, with incomparable irony, their virtual impossibility. At times, Kafka's passion for personal transcendence as a writer entered into a torturous and witty conflict with his desire for another sort of transcendence, one driven by a modern Gnosticism. This struggle prompted him continually to scrutinize different kinds of mediation, such as confessional writing, the dream, the media, the idea of marriage, skepticism, asceticism, and the imitation of death. Lambent Traces concludes with a reconstruction and critique of the approaches to Kafka by such major critics as Adorno, Gilman, and Deleuze and Guattari

Contesting Spirit Tyler T. Roberts, 1998-10-19 Challenging the dominant scholarly consensus that Nietzsche is simply an enemy of religion, Tyler Roberts examines the place of religion in Nietzsche's thought and Nietzsche's thought as a site of religion. Roberts argues that Nietzsche's conceptualization and cultivation of an affirmative self require that we interrogate the ambiguities that mark his criticisms of asceticism and mysticism What emerges is a vision of Nietzsche's philosophy as the enactment of a spiritual quest informed by transfigured versions of religious tropes and practices Nietzsche criticizes the ascetic hatred of the body and this worldly life yet engages in rigorous practices of self-denial he sees philosophy as such a practice and affirms the need of imposing suffering on oneself in order to enhance the spirit He dismisses the intoxication of mysticism yet links mysticism power and creativity and describes his own self-transcending experiences The tensions in his relation to religion are closely related to that between negation and affirmation in his thinking in general In Roberts's view Nietzsche's transfigurations of religion offer resources for a postmodern religious imagination Though as a master of suspicion Nietzsche with Freud and Marx is an integral part of modern antireligion he has the power to take us beyond the flat modern distinction between the secular and the religious a distinction that at the end of modernity begs to be reexamined

An English Course for Everybody Stuart Petre Brodie Mais, 1921 Writing Women's Literary History Margaret J. M. Ezell, 1993 This engaging revisionary book questions current notions of feminist literary history including approaches to Virginia Woolf's A Room of One's Own and contributes significantly to new understandings of seventeenth-century women's writing It is especially timely because feminism is in a particularly self-reflexive mood at the moment and Ezell's approach is original in its attention to the early period Felicity Nussbaum Syracuse University By championing the recovery of lost women writers and insisting on reevaluating the past women's studies and feminist theory have effected dramatic changes in the ways English literary history is written and taught In Writing Women's Literary History Margaret Ezell critically examines these successful women's literary histories and applies to them the same self-conscious feminism that critics have applied to more traditional methods According to Ezell by relying not only on past male scholarship but also on inherited notions of tradition some feminist historicists replicate the evolutionary narrative model of history that originally marginalized women who wrote before 1700 Drawing both on French feminisms and on recent historicist scholarship Ezell points us to new possibilities for the recovery of early modern women's literary history
