Kurt Benirschke, 2012-12-06 This conference represents the first time in my life when I felt it was a misfortune rather than a major cause of my happiness that I do conservation work in New Guinea Yes it is true that New Guinea is a fascinating microcosm it has fascinating birds and people and it has large expanses of undisturbed rainforest In the course of my work there helping the Indonesian government and World Wildlife Fund set up a comprehensive national park system I have been able to study animals in areas without any human population But New Guinea has one serious drawback it has no primates except for humans Thus I come to this conference on primate conservation as an underprivileged and emotionally deprived observer rather than as an involved participant Nevertheless it is easy for anyone to become interested in primate conservation The public cares about primates More specifically to state things more realistically many people care some of the time about some primates Primates are rivaled only by birds pandas and the big cats in their public appeal For some other groups of animals the best we can say is that few people care about them infrequently For most groups of animals no one cares about them ever Gorillas Kate Riggs, 2021-01-15 This revised edition surveys key aspects of gorillas describing the great apes appearance behaviors and habitats A folk tale explains why these creatures do nothing but eat and sleep American Book Publishing Record Cumulative, 1950-1977 R.R.
