Abstract:

The long-standing problem in the teaching of Mechanical Drawing is the low level of learning motivation. In order to solve this problem, the research group deeply analyzed the examination results of the previous students and put forward a teaching reform method of integrating additive manufacturing technology into Mechanical Drawing courses. The teaching reform method has been applied to teaching practice and has achieved good results. Firstly, the students are attracted by the display of the parts manufactured by additive manufacturing technology, and their enthusiasm for learning has been significantly improved. Secondly, in order to print out the works, the students discuss and analyze with each other. Thirdly, we used the finite element analysis software to carry out mechanical simulation of large-forced parts to show the trend of pressure and displacement. The statistical results of the examination results show that after the adoption of the new teaching method, the average score of the class examination is 72.20, which is 6.95 higher than the original score. The variance of scores has been reduced from 17.53 to 11.19, indicating that the score gap between students has decreased. The introduction of additive manufacturing technology and equipment in Mechanical Drawing courses is a typical teaching model combining theory with practice, therefore it should be adopted in more vocational colleges and universities.

Keywords: Mechanical Drawing, additive manufacturing, teaching application, vocational colleges.

1 INTRODUCTION

Higher vocational education is produced by "adapting to the needs of modern economic and social development and technological progress, and industrial development to a certain stage", which is the inevitable development of the market economy [8]. The high-quality development of vocational education is an inevitable trend in the development of China's education in the new era, which is the basic direction of the development of vocational education put forward by the national "14th Five-Year Plan" and Vision2035, and it is also the inherent attribute and essential requirement of the development of vocational colleges and universities themselves [4] [7]. Vocational education has the dual function of "enabling everyone to obtain the supply of life according to their personality, develop their abilities, and fulfill their obligations to the group at the same time", which is in line with the characteristics of vocational education is to apply what they have learned and serve the society.

Mechanical Drawing is an important technical basic course required for engineering, especially mechanical majors, and it is a course to study the drawing (drawing) and reading (looking) laws and methods of mechanical drawings [2]. Mechanical drawing is the language of the engineering, which is an important tool for communicating and expressing technical ideas, and it is an important technical document for the engineering and technical departments of enterprises [3]. Mechanical Drawing teaching has a core position in the mechanical industry, and it can cultivate manufacturing talents with drawing reading and Drawing ability [1]. Mechanical Drawing course is the professional language and
