Great Commanders:

The Great Commanders of the Medieval World 454-1582AD Andrew Roberts, 2016-05-17 What qualities made Attila the Hun a strategist of genius How did Henry V of England achieve victory at Agincourt for the loss of a few hundred of his men when the mounted French knights suffered casualties in the thousands Why was Hern n Cort s able to lead a ragged band of men to bring down the extraordinary power of the Aztec empire The answers to these and a myriad other fascinating questions can be found in Great Commanders of the Medieval World a sumptuous chronological survey of the 25 greatest commanders of the medieval world Compiled by an distinguished team of historians including such names as Jonathan Sumption Felipe Fern ndez Armesto and John Julius Norwich working under the general editorship of Andrew Roberts Great Commanders of the Medieval World is an authoritative and beautifully illustrated account of the lives and careers of the 25 greatest military commanders of the period from William the Conqueror to Genghis Khan from the Black Prince to Tamerlaine and from Joan of Arc to S leyman the Magnificent Every commander is profiled in a concise and informative 3000 word article which not only brings its subject vividly to life via a lively fact driven narrative but also analyses and assesses his tactical and strategic gifts As accessible and informative as it is rigorous and scholarly Great Commanders of the Medieval World is the perfect introduction to its subject for the layperson but also a stimulating and thought provoking read for those with greater knowledge of military history With its companion volumes focusing on the great commanders of the ancient early modern and modern eras it forms an indispensable guide to the greatest generals the world has seen Great Commanders [Illustrated Edition] Dr. Christopher Gabel, 2014-08-15 Includes 3 maps and 7 illustrations The command of military forces in combat is unlike any other field of human endeavor If war is the ultimate form of human competition then the commander is the ultimate competitor The commander operates in an environment of chance uncertainty and chaos in which the stakes are quite literally life and death He or she contends against an adversary who is using every means fair or foul to foil his plans and bring about his defeat The commander is ultimately responsible for every variable that factors into military success or failure training logistics morale equipment planning and execution The commander reaps the lion s share of plaudits in victory but also must accept the blame in defeat warranted or not Very often the line that separates fame and ignominy is slender indeed It is not difficult to identify great commanders though the overwhelming majority of generals who win battles are never considered great Something more than a favorable ratio of wins to losses is needed to establish greatness The truly great commander is generally considered to be one who attains the unexpected or the unprecedented one who stands above his contemporaries through his skill on the battlefield or through the sheer magnitude of his accomplishments The commanders selected were masters of warfare in their particular time and environment Each capitalized upon the social political economic and technological conditions of his day to forge successful military forces and win significant and noteworthy victories that profoundly altered the world in which he lived Dr Christopher R Gabel The
