Exploring Everyday Landscapes:

Exploring Everyday Landscapes Annmarie Adams, Sally Ann McMurry, 1997 Drawn from two conferences of the Vernacular Architecture Forum one held in Charleston in 1994 and the other in Ottawa in 1995 Back cover Town House Bernard L. Herman, 2012-12-01 In this abundantly illustrated volume Bernard Herman provides a history of urban dwellings and the people who built and lived in them in early America In the eighteenth century cities were constant objects of idealization often viewed as the outward manifestations of an organized civil society As the physical objects that composed the largest portion of urban settings town houses contained and signified different aspects of city life argues Herman Taking a material culture approach Herman examines urban domestic buildings from Charleston South Carolina to Portsmouth New Hampshire as well as those in English cities and towns to better understand why people built the houses they did and how their homes informed everyday city life Working with buildings and documentary sources as diverse as court cases and recipes Herman interprets town houses as lived experience Chapters consider an array of domestic spaces including the merchant family's house the servant's quarter and the widow's dower Herman demonstrates that city houses served as sites of power as well as complex and often conflicted artifacts mapping the everyday negotiations of social identity and the display of sociability

Designs on the Landscape R. A. Preece, 1993-11-26 Explores the principles of landscape design combining the theory of landscape aesthetics with the practice of good architectural design Considers why certain environments may be valued analyzes historical designs focusing on their relevance to contemporary design of the principles discussed Outlines the philosophical problems of dealing with subjectivity and the difficulties of evaluating incremental change Recognizes that visual and cultural aspects are intimately related to technical and functional matters and accordingly sets out to treat these as parts of the whole Most chapters include brief case studies based on everyday surroundings

A Golden Haze of Memory Stephanie E. Yuhl, 2006-03-08 Charleston South Carolina today enjoys a reputation as a destination city for cultural and heritage tourism In A Golden Haze of Memory Stephanie E Yuhl looks back to the crucial period between 1920 and 1940 when local leaders developed Charleston's trademark image as America's Most Historic City Eager to assert the national value of their regional cultural traditions and to situate Charleston as a bulwark against the chaos of modern America these descendants of old line families downplayed Confederate associations and emphasized the city's colonial and early national prominence They created a vibrant network of individual artists literary figures and organizations such as the all white Society for the Preservation of Negro Spirituals that nurtured architectural preservation art literature and tourism while appropriating African American folk culture In the process they translated their selective and idiosyncratic personal familial and class memories into a collective identity for the city The Charleston this group built Yuhl argues presented a sanitized yet highly marketable version of the American past Their efforts invited attention and praise from outsiders while protecting social hierarchies and preserving the political and economic power of whites Through the example of this colorful southern city Yuhl posits a larger critique about the use of heritage and demonstrates how something as intangible as the recalled past can be transformed into real political economic and social power Historic Residential Suburbs David L.
