guide to the disturbed personality through handwriting

Irene Marcuse, Ph.D.

A layman's guide to the scientific principles of GRAPHOLOGY and how they can uncover the danger signals of mental illness in time for psychologists and other professionals to take corrective action

With 24 handwriting samples and the case histories behind them

Irene Marcuse was born and educated in Europe, where her interest in the field of handwriting analysis led her to the study of psychology and philosophy at the University of Florence. She studied handwriting analysis with Max Mabit in Zurich, where she subsequently lectured on the subject in addition to the University of Rome, Florence, Bologna, and Milan.

After a number of years in Italy, Dr. Marcuse practiced and taught handwriting analysis privately, while conducting a comprehensive course at her own expense. She served as an advisor to the government departments of Italy, returned to Rome and is considered an expert in assessing the reliability of questioned documents. Dr. Marcuse is the author of Handwriting Through Time (Handwriting) (1967), which is recognized as a classic in the field.
