Expert Systems in Law Richard E. Susskind,1987 In this comprehensive investigation Susskind uses jurisprudence to articulate the presuppositions and limitations of building expert systems and to provide sound practical guidance for their design

Expert Systems in Law Antonio Anselmo Martino,1992 Informatics is a cross roads of disciplines but it is also a forge for implementations that are transforming our society because they are transforming all forms of production Law is without a doubt a very important social application domain of informatics In the volume presented here legal knowledge is considered mainly from the lawyer s point of view while taking into account the implementation of expert systems It is a review of the best known theories of the representation of legal orders and systems in the light of the possibility of using more advanced computer tools A solution to the problem of how to represent legal knowledge in such a way that it can be used by the inference engine of an expert system for making calculations and arriving at consequences is also proposed

Expert Systems in Law Herbert Fiedler,Fritjof Haft,Roland Traunmüller,1988

Expert Systems and Case Law Uri J. Schild,1992 Detailing the difficulties of building expert systems for case law this study examines two actual implemented systems and describes how they provide only a partial answer to the problem The author suggests areas where there could be considerable improvements

Expert Systems in Law Alan Tyree,1989

Expert Systems in Law Richard E. Susskind,1989 Expert systems are computer systems that engage in legal reasoning by solving legal problems beyond the general legal practitioners range of knowledge or expertise This comprehensive investigation of expert systems in law uses jurisprudence to articulate the presuppositions and limitations of building such systems and provides practical guidance for their design

Database and Expert Systems Applications Dimitris Karagiannis,2013-11-11 The Database and Expert Systems Applications DEXA conferences are dedi cated to providing an international forum for the presentation of applications in the database and expert systems field for the exchange of ideas and experiences and for defining requirements for the future systems in these fields After the very promising DEXA 90 in Vienna Austria we hope to have successfully established wjth this year s DEXA 91 a stage where scientists from diverse fields interested in application oriented research can present and discuss their work This year there was a total of more than 250 submitted papers from 28 different countries in all continents Only 98 of the papers could be accepted The collection of papers in these proceedings offers a cross section of the issues facing the area of databases and expert systems i e topics of basic research interest on one hand and questions occurring when developing applications on the other Major credit for the success of the conference goes to all of our colleagues who submitted papers for consideration and to those who have organized and chaired the panel sessions Many persons contributed numerous hours to organize this conference The names of most of them will appear on the following pages In particular we wish to thank the Organization Committee Chairmen Johann Gordesch A Min Tjoa and Roland Wagner who also helped establishing the program Special thanks also go to Gabriella Wagner and Anke Ruckert Dimitris Karagiannis General Conference Chairman Contents Conference Committee

Database and Expert Systems Applications A Min Tjoa,Roland Wagner,2012-12-06 Use and development of database and expert systems can be found in all fields of computer science The aim of this book is to present a large spectrum of already implemented or just being developed database and expert systems Contributions cover new requirements concepts for implementations e g languages models storage structures management of meta data system architectures and experiences gained by using traditional databases in as many areas of applications as possible at least in the fields listed The aim of the book is to inspire a fruitful dialogue between development in practice users of database and expert systems and scientists working in the field

Legal Expert Systems Martina Smith,Tina Smith,1994 Expert Systems in Law , SHYSTER: A Pragmatic Legal Expert System James Popple,1993-04-29 Most legal expert systems attempt to implement complex models of legal reasoning But the utility of a legal expert system lies not in the extent to which it simulates a lawyer s approach to a legal problem but in the quality of its predictions and of its arguments A complex model of legal reasoning is not necessary a successful legal expert system can be based upon a simplified model of legal reasoning Some researchers have based their systems upon a jurisprudential approach to the law yet lawyers are patently able to operate without any jurisprudential insight A useful legal expert system should be capable of producing advice similar to that which one might get from a lawyer so it should operate at the same pragmatic level of abstraction as does a lawyer not at the more philosophical level of jurisprudence A legal expert system called SHYSTER has been developed to demonstrate that a useful legal expert system can be based upon a pragmatic approach to the law SHYSTER has a simple representation structure which simplifies the problem of knowledge acquisition Yet this structure is complex enough for SHYSTER to produce useful advice SHYSTER is a case based legal expert system although it has been designed so that it can be linked with a rule based system to form a hybrid legal expert system Its advice is based upon an examination of and an argument about the similarities and differences between cases SHYSTER attempts to model the way in which lawyers argue with cases but it does not attempt to model the way in which lawyers decide which cases to use in those arguments Instead it employs statistical techniques to quantify the similarity between cases It decides which cases to use in argument and what prediction it will make on the basis of that similarity measure SHYSTER is of a general design it can provide advice in areas of case law that have been specified by a legal expert using a specification language Hence it can operate in different legal domains Four different and disparate areas of law have been specified for SHYSTER and its operation has been tested in each of those domains Testing of SHYSTER in these four domains indicates that it is exceptionally good at predicting results and fairly good at choosing cases with which to construct its arguments SHYSTER demonstrates the viability of a pragmatic approach to legal expert system design

A Hybrid Legal Expert System Thomas A O'Callaghan, 2003 Legal expert systems are the nexus of Artificial Intelligence and the law A legal expert system is a system capable of performing at a level expected of a lawyer Popple 1996 page 3 Legal expert systems may be designed for use by legally trained people or for use by the general public lay people Legal expert systems designed for use by legally trained people aim to provide a method of speeding up the provision and improving the accuracy of legal research undertaken with the aim of advising the client Designed for use by legally trained people these systems may assume general legal knowledge Consequently the questions asked by the system and the reports returned may be stated at a level appropriate for legally trained people The primary benefit of this category of legal expert system is the reduction of internal cost of legal research The flow on benefits for clients reductions in the cost of legal services and consequently improved access to quality representation and reduction of the time taken to resolve a legal question Legal expert systems designed for use by lay people aim to provide greater access to the law This category of legal expert system is more difficult to create because no legal knowledge by the user can be assumed The discovery of the facts of the case becomes problematic Susskind 2001 More research is required in the area of fact elicitation before such systems become viable Once they are viable access to the law should be dramatically improved A consequential benefit may be a reduction in litigation as potential litigants could settle their dispute by reference to the advice of a legal expert system However such a system would raise an important ethical question the creators of such a system may be usurping the role of the courts in that the public may come to rely on the statements by the system as what the law is SHYSTER MYCIN is the legal expert system created for and discussed in this thesis SHYSTER MYCIN combines rule based reasoning with case based reasoning The system is designed as the first category of legal expert systems described above a legal expert system to be consulted by legally trained people This hybrid system enables the case based reasoner to determine open textured concepts when required by the rule based reasoner MYCIN The system operates on a reduced version of the Copyright Act 1968 including cases that define the term authorization see Chapter 2 The Act is reasoned by a system of rules Whereas cases are reasoned by analogy This approach is supported by jurisprudential discussions on legal reasoning see Chapter 3 The system was created in three progressive versions Chapter 5 The focus of the creation of the system was the reporting of reasons for conclusions The second and third versions were tested against three criteria validity conciseness and correctness see Chapter 6 The system performed well see Chapter 7 against those criteria indicating that the approach taken is appropriate that is it is appropriate to use rules to reason with statutes and analogy to reason with cases International Journal of Applied Expert Systems ,1994
